

Want to know more about phonemic awareness and other pre-reading skills?

Blending sounds to build words and segmenting words into individual sounds are crucial skills for children to develop because they lay the foundation for learning to read.

Read more at teachmykidtoread.org

Learning to read doesn't happen naturally, as speaking does. And it doesn't happen all at once. There is a constant progression...over time.

Read more at learningreadinghub.com